

AUTHORS' GUIDELINES

Abstract/Manuscript Submission Guidelines for Speakers & Authors

SDPI holds the right to accept or reject any paper at any stage from being presented in the Conference and from being included in the SDC Anthology.

Each submission undergoes a vigorous editorial and peer review process. Author/s need to be cognizant of the fact that during this process their abstracts and papers will be reviewed and edited for substance, language, and grammar by a team of referees and expert editors, and their editorial and review decisions will be considered final. Potential speakers are requested to strictly abide by the mentioned deadlines.

Submitting Abstracts for the Conference

Submission Deadline: 21 August 2023

Potential speakers are invited to submit their abstract/s for the SDPI's Twenty-sixth Sustainable Development Conference titled "Light at the End of the Tunnel: Hope in Times of Despair". A soft copy of the abstract of 150 - 200 words in MS Word should be submitted by 21 August 2023 to the SDC Unit at sdc@sdpi.org. Submissions may also be copied to relevant panel organisers. See the link for the panel title; panel write-up; and panel organiser's details where details are available: <https://sdpi.org/sdconference/Light-at-the-End-of-the-tunnel-Hope-in-Times-of-Despair/panels>

Each abstract will be screened through a plagiarism detection software. Abstracts with text copied from sources without proper citations will not be accepted. Authors are encouraged to develop their own analysis.

The abstract should:

- Focus on the panel's theme and be related to the overarching theme of the Twenty-sixth Sustainable Development Conference. Please continue to visit the section on panels for the updated list.
- Clearly state the title, theme, objectives, sources of data, and major expected findings.
- Be in a narrative form, not in bullet points.
- Consist of author's own analysis.
- Clearly identify at the top the panel title it is being sent for.
- Be written using British spellings.
- Include the author's full name, a brief bionote as author, of no more than 30 words, complete contact address (including email as well as postal), telephone and fax numbers.
 - Example of an Author's Bionote: Dr Rubina Ahmad is a professor at the Department of Sociology, University of the Punjab, Lahore, Pakistan. She is an author and gender activist and has worked with various UN and international organisations on gender issues.

Only those speakers whose abstracts have been shortlisted will be notified and guided through the process of participating in the Conference and presenting their paper. The shortlisted authors will be requested to send their papers and PowerPoint presentations by 1 November 2023.

Submitting¹ Papers for the Conference

Submission Deadline: 1 November 2023

The paper should be concise not exceeding a maximum of 6,000 words (including an abstract of 150 - 200 words), approximately 20 type-written pages (1.5 line spacing, 12 font size, Times New Roman font) in MS Word, including all tables, figures and standardized references as given below.

All papers are screened through a plagiarism detection software. SDPI has zero tolerance for plagiarism. Authors are encouraged to generate their own debate and analysis. Referenced/cited text should not exceed 19% of the paper. Authors are requested to rely on recent data and publications in order to enrich the analysis. Please use the Harvard Style of referencing. A detailed guide can be viewed at the given link: <<http://www.usq.edu.au/library/referencing/harvard-agps-referencing-guide>>.

Authors should ensure that their manuscripts follow the format as outlined below:

1. Title

Title for the paper, tables and figures should be concise and clearly indicate the subject matter being dealt with. Title of the paper should not be the same as the title of the panel.

2. Abstract

See “Writing / Submitting Abstracts for the Conference” for details.

3. Sections and Sub-Sections

Bold all sections and give a maximum of 3-digit numbering of sub-sections (i.e. 3.2.1). Sub-section headings should start at the left margin.

4. Lists, Tables, Figures and Images

Provide a list of abbreviations/acronyms used, as well as a Glossary of Key Terms, especially those mentioned in native language with their English translation and brief explanation. Present only important tables and figures that illustrate the points made. Tables and figures should be well designed and complete to avoid lengthy explanation in the text. Each figure should be presented on a separate page and should not exceed half-a-page in size and should leave margins on both sides. While reproducing data from a diagram or table, or copying the entire table or diagram, in the paper, a reference should be made to the source.

A reference within the text to a table taken from a book should include the author and page (Smith 2005, p.33). Where the source of the data is not the author’s own, but obtained from another source, that is, a second-hand reference and needs to be cited thus (United Nations 1975 cited in Smith 2005, p.33). Ensure that all graphs, maps and figures can be printed in black-and-white colour since colour printing of the paper may not be possible.

{Object}

¹ Original papers are encouraged. However, published and written papers with proper credit given to the source/s may be presented at the SDC provided they are approved by the editorial team. Obtaining the copyright permission will be the author’s responsibility.

5. Footnotes and Endnotes

For extra explanations, use footnotes indicated using auto numbers. Footnotes should be brief. Footnotes should not provide references given within the text. The footnote should be given on the first page using an asterisk (*). Do not use endnotes.

6. Direct Quotes

Brief quotations (about 30 words or less) can be included in text. Use single quotation marks/inverted commas, ('Engineers are vital to the survival of the planet' (Stewart 1982, p. 6)). Very lengthy quotations should be given in separate, smaller text, indented paragraphs (Block Quotes) with the complete citation.

7. Paraphrasing

Use of another scholar's work (even paraphrased) requires proper referencing. Citation marks are not essential. However, there is a need to provide the original source of information referred to within the text. Further, any paraphrased text without giving the reference source next to it is academic dishonesty and is NOT acceptable.

8. Acknowledgements

Authors are welcome to give Acknowledgements at the end of the paper. However, the word limit is 30 words.

9. List of Acronyms and Glossary of Terms

A complete list of acronyms/ abbreviations used in the text need to be provided. References made to terms, objects, nomenclature in the local dialect need to be given in italics in the text with their English translation and explanation given in the Glossary of Terms as well as given in the footnotes.

10. Syntax and Language

Each paragraph should contain a full message and use simple language. Avoid lengthy sentences. Use British spellings and indicate all monetary values in US dollars (USD) apart from the local form of currency as the paper is meant for an international audience and readers.

11. References

The reference section is one of the most important sections of the paper that needs to be given very close attention while finalising the manuscript for submission. The peer-reviewed approved papers are published in an edited volume and require references standardised according to the Harvard style. As mentioned earlier, authors are encouraged to generate their own debate and analysis. Referenced/cited text should not exceed 19% of the paper.

The style of references used in the SDC Anthology and SDPI's English Publication Series has been adapted from the Harvard Style (AGPS) of University of Southern Queensland. These can be viewed at: <http://www.usq.edu.au/library/referencing/harvard-agps-referencing-guide>.

- Sources that have been quoted in the research (statistics, statements, terminology, pictures etc.) should be acknowledged by citing their source reference within the text along with the complete source/citation in the Reference section at the end of the document.
- Sources that have been studied during research and have not been quoted can be added in the Bibliography section.

- The list of references should be arranged in alphabetical order by authors' surnames. The author's surname is placed first, followed by initials or first name, and then the year of publication is given. Where an item does not have an author, it should be arranged by its title.
- If the list contains more than one item published by the same author in the same year, add lower case letters immediately after the year to distinguish them, for example '2020a', '2019b' and so on.
- E-documents and e-books also need to be quoted. If a web document includes both a date of creation and a date it was last updated, use only the date it was last updated. For a document on the Web, which is a series of linked pages, use the information from the main or 'home' page.
- The author's own previously published work, if cited in the paper, also needs to be referenced.
- A detailed reference style guide is available at:
<<http://www.usq.edu.au/library/referencing/harvard-agps-referencing-guide>>.

SDC Anthology

SDPI holds the right to accept or reject any manuscript submitted for the review process to be included in the SDC anthology series as a chapter.

Each SDC anthology is based on the papers presented at that particular Conference. It is an internationally circulated quality publication that goes through an extensive review process and by tradition is launched at the succeeding conference. Previous SDC anthologies are available at the given link: at <https://sdpi.org/sdconference/sdcpublications/publications>

Speakers participating in the SDC will be given one month after the conference to include the feedback given during the panel discussion, revise their paper/s and submit the final draft for the review process of the SDC anthology publication.

A manuscript submitted for the review process will first undergo a plagiarism review. If cleared, it will then go through a double-blind peer review process. If approved by the referee, there will be two rounds of editing followed by the publisher's formalities. This is a year-long extensive process. Its success relies heavily on the referee's feedback and author's revisions undertaken whenever and wherever required. The SDC Unit supports each speaker through this journey towards becoming an author of a chapter in the SDC anthology.
